Circular Letter No.4622
30 August 2022

To: IMO Members States
United Nations and specialized agencies

Subject: Vacancy Notice
President
World Maritime University (WMU)
Malmö, Sweden

1 The Secretary-General of the International Maritime Organization has the honour to enclose the following Vacancy Notice for the post of President, World Maritime University, Malmö, Sweden.

2 Applications, as indicated in the Vacancy Notice, should be submitted, for the attention of the Secretary-General, International Maritime Organization, via email only, to the following email address: DirectorTCD@imo.org, no later than 9 October 2022.

Vacancy Notice: President, World Maritime University (WMU)

The World Maritime University (WMU) was established in 1983 by the International Maritime Organization (IMO), the United Nations specialized agency mandated to promote safe, secure, efficient and sustainable shipping on clean oceans. Since its inauguration, WMU has established a reputation for excellence in providing high-level maritime education, training and research to the international maritime community.

WMU is seeking an experienced leader with excellent academic, managerial and fundraising skills to fill the post of President of the University, which is situated in Malmö, Sweden. The President is appointed by the Secretary-General of IMO.

Tasks and responsibilities

Under the overall supervision, control and direction of the Board of Governors, the Executive Board and the IMO Secretary-General, as appropriate, the President shall direct and administer the University, including the WMU-Sasakawa Global Ocean Institute, in accordance with the University's Charter, regulations and rules, strategic directions and plans. The President will, inter alia:

Academic affairs:

- .1 direct the activities connected with the execution of the teaching and research programmes of the University and the ongoing evaluation and revision of educational programmes, student services and operations;
- .2 coordinate the educational and other programmes of the University with the activities of the IMO and, as appropriate, the United Nations and its agencies and other global academic institutions;
- .3 assess the quality and quantity of academic staff required to maintain the high educational standards set by the University;

Financial management:

- .4 oversee the business and financial affairs of the University, including preparation of the work programme and the budget estimates of the University for submission to the Executive Board for consideration and approval;
- .5 authorize expenditure of funds provided in the budget and approved by the Board of Governors;
- .6 oversee the University's operations to ensure the continued viability and sustainability of the University, including resource mobilization opportunities and promulgation of long-term funding commitments through its Endowment Fund;

General administration:

- .7 assume responsibility for the general administration and the management of the University and its operational resources;

- .8 be ultimately responsible for student activities, admissions, registration, records, academic progress, counselling, housing, and other academic and non-academic functions;
- .9 recommend to the Board of Governors, through the Executive Board, arrangements between the University and Governments, international or national organizations under which assistance and services related to the activities of the University may be offered or received;
- .10 provide the necessary services to the Board of Governors, the Executive Board, their subsidiary bodies and the Academic Council;
- .11 in consultation with the Chancellor, recommend to the Executive Board the establishment (including potential composition) of advisory bodies as may be necessary; and

Reporting:

- .12 report to the Board of Governors, the Executive Board and the Chancellor on the activities of the University and the execution of its programmes, in accordance with procedures established or approved for that purpose.

The President shall discharge their functions and regulate their conduct in an ethical manner at all times, with the interest of the University only in view and in accordance with the WMU Charter, staff regulations and rules and the guiding principles of standards of conduct of international civil servants.

Professional experience

The successful candidate should have an excellent record of leadership in the following roles:

- managing a complex higher-level educational institution; or
- executive management position(s) in maritime administrations or international intergovernmental and/or non-governmental organizations dealing with maritime affairs and/or ocean policy matters; and a record of excellence in teaching, research, resource mobilization and service activities at a university or academic institution.

The successful candidate should ideally have extensive experience in the identification and mobilization of resources from national, regional or international donors and a record of successfully delivering change and innovation and providing strong external representation.

Key attributes for the successful candidate include proven credibility in relevant governmental, academic and maritime industry forums and, in the case of candidates from academic institutions, published research.

Education and required competencies

It is anticipated that the successful candidate will possess a PhD degree from a reputable and accredited institution and will be able to demonstrate the following competencies:

- .1 leadership skills and a track record of success in managing change and setting new strategic directions at academic or other similar institutions preferably with a maritime focus;
- .2 the ability to motivate and support academic and non-academic staff;
- .3 financial acumen;
- .4 a demonstrated commitment to academic excellence in an international field, particularly in maritime and ocean affairs;
- .5 familiarity with the maritime industry and the challenges faced by Governments in relation to ocean governance and in the context of sustainable development;
- .6 strong advocacy, diplomacy and communication skills;
- .7 the ability to form effective, mutually beneficial collaboration arrangements with the locality, the host Government, other Governments, donors and benefactors as well as those to and from whom the University offers and receives services; and
- .8 commitment to integrity, efficiency, transparency, objectivity, equality of opportunity and diversity.

A full professorship at a renowned academic institution will be an advantage.

Language skills

Advanced proficiency in English (written and spoken) is essential. Working knowledge of another official language(s) of the United Nations would be highly desirable.

Contract information

The initial appointment will be for a fixed-term period of four years, the first year of which will be probationary. The President will be eligible for reappointment, for up to another fixed-term period of four years, subject to satisfactory performance.

It is expected that the selected candidate will take up their official appointment on 29 June 2023.

Salary information

The remuneration for the post is USD 250,000 per annum, free of income tax in Sweden. The University's staff regulations and rules set out a competitive benefits package.
